SCHOOL OPENING

The Public and High Schools will reopen after summer vacation on Tuesday, Sept. 3rd. The full quota of teachers has been engaged and everything will be in full working order on the first day. List of books for all grades will be given out on the opening day, and all school supplies may be had from the drug store.

It should also be noticed, that by a recent enactment of the School Law of Alberta all children 15 years of age and under must attend school, the idea seems to be prevalent, that after passing grade VIII a boy or girl need not attend school; by this recent law it will be seen, that parents neglecting to send their children to school are liable to be prosecuted.

Until the new school is ready, the primary grade will occupy the Parish Hall.

FAIR NOTES

Remember the School Fair at the School of Agriculture next week, Sept. 6th.

Members of the Pig Clubs should take note that the pigs to be exhibited should not be brought in until the morning of the Fair, Sept. 6th.

The S.O.S. boys who are intending to take part in the contests at the School Fair, should send in their names as early as possible to the secretary, Mr. R. K. Peck.

The following contributions to the prizes for the S.O.S. competition have been reported so far: Mr. O. Walker, of the Crown Lumber Co., a farm gate, value from $1.60 to $14.00; C. J. Braren, one good Sweater; W. Knight, of the Beaver Lumber Co., one pair of Union Overalls; J. M. Soby, one alarm clock. A number of cash subscriptions have also been received which will be given as cash prizes in the contests.

Twenty-five rural schools are taking part in the School Fair. Each school must arrange to bring its own exhibits to the Fair.

All exhibits, except live stock, must be delivered at the School of Agriculture, Clareholm, on Thursday, Sept. 6th.

Live stock and poultry exhibits must be delivered not later than 11 a.m. on Friday, Sept. 6th.

Programme

Friday, Sept. 6th, 9 a.m.—Judging vegetables, flowers, grains, etc.

1:30 p.m.—Judging live stock and poultry.

2:30 p.m.—S.O.S. contest and distribution of S.O.S. Badges.

3:30 p.m.—Address.

Admission free. Everybody welcome.

ROUNDING UP DESERTERS

There are 1500 military police who have charge of rounding up deserters and they have been instructed to use every possible effort now to apprehend every default. The general courts martial have been particularly appointed to deal with the situation. Previously there were only district courts martial and the extreme penalty they could enforce was the years.

The general courts martial can sentence a deserter to death. It is not anticipated that any deserters will be ordered shot unless under extreme provocation, but without doubt lengthy and possibly life penal sentences will be ordered. The courts martial will have to take into consideration cases where men had not seen the proclamation or where there are good reasons for failing to report.

In the case of defaulters who express their willingness to do uniform the courts martial may allow them to enlist on suspended sentence.

One of our local farmers was accosted on the street by a business man of Clareholm, some time ago, and asked why he had sent away for a certain article that he had received from "T. Ratna." "I could have supplied you with a better article at less cost," declared the business man. "Well, said Mr. T. "How should I know you have it in stock; you never advertise, and the other fellow does." And still the same business man can't "tumble."

EDLUND & FRASER

PIG CLUBS OF ALBERTA

Very little publicity has been given to much of the effort that is being made in Alberta towards more production of food products, and yet a very real and important work has been going on for some time under the guidance of agricultural experts.

W. J. Elliott, of the School of Agriculture at Oda, is in charge of the Pig Club work and splendid results have been accomplished by him in encouraging the raising of well-bred hogs by the boys and girls on the farms. A large number of clubs have been formed in various centres, three of which are located at Clareholm, Staveland and Grannum. The Bank of Commerce has been co-operating with Mr. Elliott and have been loaning to each boy and girl who joins the club sufficient money to buy two pure-bred pigs, asking as security nothing but the boy or girl's personal note. The pigs are bought by Mr. Elliott and distributed by his representatives at the various points.

The pigs of the local branches of Staveland, Clareholm and Grannum, will be exhibited at the School Fair, which takes place next week, Sept. 6th, and will doubtless prove one of the most interesting features of the Fair.

CABINET CHANGES

Following the ousting of Hon. C. W. Cross from the position of attorney-general in the Alberta Cabinet, there has been a shift in the positions of some of our members. The principal change is the bringing in of Hon. A. C. McKay, as minister of municipalities.

Hon. Wilfred Gariepy, who formerly held this post, is shifted to take the position of provincial secretary, formerly held by Hon. George P. Smith, who was also a minister of health. Mr. Smith retains the ministry of health and in addition takes over the department of education formerly presided over by Hon. John R. Boyle. Mr. Boyle is shifted to the position of attorney-general.

The other ministers continue at their posts. Hon. Charles R. Mitchell, general treasurer, Hon. Donald Marshall as minister of agriculture, and Premier Charles Stewart as the head of the department of railways and telephones.

NEW ISSUE OF VICTORY LOAN AT ONE HUNDRED

The big drive in connection with the forthcoming Victory Loan will be for subscriptions from $5,000 to $25,000. This was the decision reached at Ottawa last week at a meeting of the chairman in charge of the different provincial campaigns. It is pointed out that in the last campaign only about $70,000,000 was secured in subscriptions of this size in the last campaign, and that such amounts should form the bulk of the total.

The loan will be floated at 100 and it is estimated that as compared with the last issue there will be a saving to the government of $7,000,000. The opinion at the conference was generally in favor of the decision not to fix tax bands.

For the present strong market for Victory Bonds, much credit is given to the special committee which took care of sales. Through this committee about $50,000,000 of the issue found a market, and the manner in which it was able to take care of the liquidation of certain larger holdings was no doubt responsible for the strength which has developed.

MORE FIGHTING IN ARIZONA

Firing was resumed about 9:55 o'clock on Wednesday night. Between 15 and 20 shot shots were fired from the Mexican side of the border. A general alarm was sounded on the Arizona side of the international line, and the mobilization of troops and civil forces here were increased this afternoon by the arrival of new units.

What Will You Do For Help?

FARM help is scarce, but this condition can be relieved to a marked degree by using machines that accomplish more work in a given time with less man power.

Why should the farmer cling to horses—a slow, expensive means of power—when every other business is adopting the truck and thereby reducing the cost of hauling, speeding up deliveries, and saving for human needs the food that the horses would otherwise consume?

The motor-driven truck can work constantly at maximum load under the burning summer sun, in the coldest weather. Unlike the horse it needs no rests while working, it eats only when in actual use, and when the day's work is done it requires very little attention, and leaves you free for other "Chores" about the place. Then, it can be housed in one-quarter the space of the horses, wagon and harness it replaces. It is a mistaken idea that a truck is useful only for driving upon paved roads. The Ford can be driven all over the farm, and used for hauling grain, potatoes, fruit, roots, fertilizer, wool, stock, milk or any other product. The speed it travels, the time it saves, and its upkeep cost saved very strongly to all users of the Ford Truck. If you need help, order your Ford One Ton Truck today.

WANT GOVERNMENT TO BOOST SALE OF HORSES FOR MEAT

Canada Can Supply 50,000 Horses For Meat Purposes; The Meeting Was Unanimous ..

After a thorough discussion of the question of utilizing the horse, especially those of the scrub variety, and those which their lameness were unfit for work for human food, a joint meeting of the directors of the Alberta Horse, Cattle and Swine Breeders' Association, passed a unanimous resolution calling the attention of the Dominion Government to the advisability of removing these horses from the range in order to permit the better class of horses, cattle, sheep and swine to have the food now being consumed by them and at the same time to supply food to a large number of the allies of neutral countries who are accustomed to eat that variety of food.

The resolution will be conveyed to Ottawa personally by Mr. Geo. Headley, M. L. A., leader of the Alberta Opposition, who has been making investigations along this line and who gave an illuminating talk on the subject to the meeting.

Mr. Headley Explains

He had interviewed Mr. Dillon, representing the firm of Meyers Brothers, a syndicate in New York who contract for supplies for the French Government and who have already secured that government with 500,000 horses and mules. Mr. Dillon wanted to know how many horses could be purchased at five cents per pound. Mr. Headley estimated that from 25,000 to 100,000 could be picked up in Canada at this price, and stated that if the Government succeeded in this getting rid of say 25,000 such horses it would accomplish more for the improvement of the strain of the horse than fifty years of breeding.

Representative Body

Upon the committee which drafted the resolution were such well known representatives as the following: Dr. J. G. Rutherford, superintendent of animal husbandry for the C.P.R., representing the horsemen; L. M. Hutchinson, Dabamel, representing the cattlemen; Richard Knight, Priddis, sheep; W. J. Hoover, Camrose, hog and swine breeders. Alex. Galbraith, superintendent of fairs and institutes, was present and took an active part in the discussion.

Mr. Rutherford, who occupied the chair, called upon Mr. Headley to explain the object of the meeting. Mr. Headley explained that a couple of weeks ago the horse breeders had met and talked over the subject, and he decided to call together representatives of the different associations in order that they might better appreciate or condemn the effort to get the Government to take up the question. He explained that the horse breeders were a genuine food needed by their better, which was a very serious thing at the present time, for although the recent rains had somewhat improved the situation, it would take several years before the range would recover fully from the very close cropping of the grass by the horses and cattle consequent upon the dry weather. He estimated that the country would be richer, even if all these horses were killed and left on the prairie, or if they were killed for their fat and hides, even without disposing of their flesh. But there was no need of this, for there is a large market for horse flesh in Europe. The placing of more horse flesh upon the market would not injure the sale of other meats because the people who buy horse flesh cannot afford to buy other meat and ordinarily do without when there is no horse flesh for sale.

American Eating Horse

Mr. Headley stated that even in the United States the market for horse flesh was increasing. New York, Manhattan and Brooklyn consume on an average 25 horse carcasses per week. There are five shops in one place and four shops in the other.

Europe Demands Horse Meat

He gave statistics to show that horse flesh was in general use in Europe previous to the war. According to his statistics, states that two thirds of the horse flesh used in Paris is made into sausages. Of 600,000 people residing in Paris there are 100,000 people who use horse flesh for food. In 1910, 29,000,000 pounds of horse meat was produced for consumption. In Paris and two horse abattoirs were established under municipal control which supply Paris with meat.

The rapidity of the growth of the use of horse meat from the date of the authorization of its sale is shown by the following figures. In 1914 there were 45 butcher shops in Paris for the sale of horse meat. By 1919 there were 122; in 1924 211, and in 1929 299.

According to the 25th annual report of the bureau of animal industry, Germany in 1909 slaughtered 122,214 horses which provided 79,000,000 pounds of meat, approximately one and one-half pounds per capita. They also slaughtered 6,990 dogs for food purpose. The municipal horse abattoirs slaughter the following horses: Berlin, 12,890; Vienna, 18,290; Milan, Italy, 7,132; Liege, Belgium, 1,275. But Belgium imports most of her horse meat in the form of sausages from other countries. At Odessa, Russia, there is a municipal abattoir where horse meat is prepared for the Tartars.

Possibly the first mention made of recognition of horse flesh in the United States was in 1898 when an appropriation was made by the bureau of animal industry in order that lame horses and horse carcasses and their products may have the same inspection as other meats.

Where Does the Next Go?

Mr. Headley called attention to the fact that 50 per cent. of the gloves and much shoe-leather was made of horse hide. In view of the fact that this horse hide to be of any use must come off carcasses that had been bled and is no use if taken off horses that die in the ordinary way, he asked what became of the horse flesh.

There is no law in the United States against the use of horse flesh for human food so long as it is given its right name.

Mr. Headley estimated that 10,000 scrub horses might be picked from the Indian reserves of Canada. By slaughtering 2,500 and 1,000 could be from the Gleichen district and some thousands from the Medicine Hat district.

Rutherford spoke appreciatively of Mr. Headley's speech and asked some information of his own. He estimated that the horse market for horses up to 1,500 pounds, and there was not much market for light driving horses. He had purchased 150 horses last spring weighing from 1,350 to 1,400 pounds, but wanted a few horses for demerit teams and had a hard time to get any as the breeders were not breaking them because there was no market. The question of horse flesh for meat is settled beyond dispute, almost all the bologna sausages that were imported previous to the war were made of horse meat. He also told of the Indians selling horse meat in Manitoba as moose meat.

Prejudice Due to Sentiment

Prejudice against this class of meat was mostly a matter of sentiment. But wherever horseflesh was introduced it was never discontinued. He had made a study of meat inspection and could say there was nothing in the law against the use of horse meat so long as it is not represented as being something else.

It was suggested that the Canadian government might use horse flesh to feed the prisoners and the others from meat camps. Some objection was taken to this suggestion, but others said that the prisoners in Germany had to eat only too good to get good horse meat. Mr. Headley pointed out that there had been a great change in the way prisoners were being treated of late. No longer were German prisoners permitted to keep their families and given large country houses in which to reside. Still it was decided not to include the suggestion in the resolution to the government.

It was also suggested that there were many lame horses and horses otherwise crippled which could not be used for anything else and which would bring much more than 5 cents per pound than on the ordinary market.

Demand for Heavy Horses

Mr. Headley said there was no question but what heavy draft horses would be in great demand after the war. He also told how the Germans changed in their treatment of horses in Belgium. First they used them as running targets, shooting them and leaving them on the ground. In one instance a highly bred horse was burned standing in his box for the pleasure of tormenting the groom and his family who were compelled to witness the scene on their knees. Later the horses were bought up and shipped to Germany. In payment an order was written on the republican government in Paris. In one case the order written in German was translated, proved to be an order for a pair of rabbits.

The foregoing resolution was then unanimously passed and entrusted to Mr. Headley, who was to convey it to Ottawa and convey the sentiments of the meeting. Another resolution was probably sent from the Western Stock Breeders' association.

The Resolution

"That the joint meeting of the directors of the Alberta Horse, Cattle and Swine Breeders' associations, having heard the statements of Mr. George Headley, M.L.A., relative to the utilization as human food of the numbers of light horses which while they have ceased to be of economic value, annually consume large quantities of feed which could be used to much greater advantage for other classes of stock, desires to impress upon the government of Canada the advisability of taking immediate action with a view of opening up a channel or channels through which these horses could be made available for food purposes in each of the allied or neutral countries as are in the habit of consuming horse flesh.

The present were Dr. Rutherford, representing the department of agriculture and animal industry of the C.P.R.; George Headley, M.L.A.; W. H. Thomas, Admirey, Vancouver director; G. A. Foster lately U.F.A. board of directors; Alex. Galbraith, Edmonton, Supt. of fairs and institutes; A. J. Smith, High River; Theo. Laycock, Calgary; Ben Pinkeyton, Calgary; James Jones, Freshfield; S. D. Mace, High River; Herbert Smith, Camrose; W. J. Smith, Olds; O. E. Brown, Calgary; F. W. Hutchinson, Dabamel; Richard Knight, Priddis; W. J. Hoover, Camrose.

AN OUNCE OF PREVENTION

The city of Chicago has outlined a scheme for spending several million dollars in a City Planning enterprise to be started immediately after the war.

Had Chicago harkened years ago to the warnings of city-planning "experts" on city planning, the city it is now contemplating would have saved its taxpayers many millions.

This likewise is the history of hundreds of other cities on the American continent.

Headless of basic principles, disregarding ultimate results, the people of many of our greatest municipal corporations are now in the hands of a few men who are so fabulously, and that will create great debenture debts for the succeeding generations to discharge.

The truth and force of the old adage about "an ounce of prevention" came top late for these places.

But there are many smaller communities who should start right now to give heed to present and future economies.

If there is any thing wrong with a matter of sentiment, start to find out just where the fault lies and then give your fellow citizens the best of your assistance in correcting the deficiency.

There's not much wrong with any community where its citizens are loyal in a unanimous degree to the interests of the community.

In the first place, then, see that you are loyal. Don't grouse and grumble about the other fellow. Get your own house in order, and then proceed to do a little diplomatic missionary work in leading your erring neighbor to the light of municipal expansion and progress.

Sometimes we wonder how it is that a neighboring town always seems to be better than ours, although it hasn't half the natural advantages of our own town. Any town that gets there has the "get there" spirit.

If your town is courageous, ambitious and loyal it possesses the essentials that nothing can daunt.

But don't figure you can be satisfied with a halfhearted toward the mainpring of your town's business institutions—and still retaining the spirit that wins.

That's an ambition as an elephant getting religion.

Never forget what you owe to your community. If we all keep that strictly in mind it will never come that we'll have to worry about "what the community owes to us."

When North Dakota was being settled up by farmers, great assistance was given the new settlers by the retail traders of the towns that sprung up. The farmers were helped over the rough places—there was always good with the merchants in a bad year or times of hardship. Soon, however, the merchants began to forget all about the local dealers who had been their main standby and started sending their cash off to some big catalogue stores that sprung up in the cities or other places.

What is the result to-day?

North Dakota has the poorest assortment of towns of any state in the union. Farm lands are not worth a quarter as much as they are in other states that keep the spirit of community patriotism burning brightly. Heed the lesson!

While entering a bank in an eastern city a woman fell dead. People should keep away from those places, and leave their money with editors. Nobody ever falls dead when paying the printer. The printer always seems to be good to those who pay for their paper early and often, but we have had many a delinquent subscriber who died a sudden and terrible manner.

Beginning to Find Out

The Fighting Power of Aroused Democracies

When Ambassador Gerard was, after some hesitation, given half a dozen papers by the German foreign office, the papers informed the ambassador that the Americans would not fight any war.

The Kaiser and his satellites are beginning to find out whether the Americans will fight. What has happened to date is a mere foretaste of what is to come when a couple of million Americans, linked up with the British-French and Italian armies, will march forward over the line and across the Rhine, shouting "hip-hip-hooray," as the Yankee song has it.

There is the last excuse for the German misconception about the Americans because they have previously admitted their parallel blunder about the British army and then for the Americans spring from the same cause, a feeling that only a militarized nation, in the grip of a military caste, with an heroic aptitude and taste for war, can successfully make war on the modern scale.

They knew nothing about the fighting power of aroused democracies. But they are learning, with most of the reasons yet to come—Winnipeg Free Press.

Crop Prospects Good

Railway Official's Conclusion Following Western Tour

"After an extended tour through the west, visiting the C.P.R. and other lines, during which I looked closely into crop prospects, I think it is safe to conclude that the increased acreage under cultivation in Western Canada this year will produce at least as many bushels of grain, as last year, provided, of course, that conditions continue as favorable as they are at present."

This was the statement made on July 15th by Mr. C. E. McPherson, assistant passenger traffic manager of the C.P.R. at Winnipeg, while in Montreal on a business trip.

Mr. McPherson said that in some parts of Alberta and Saskatchewan drought and wind had cut into the possibilities of the harvest very seriously had it not been for the recent rains had helped the growing grain wonderfully, so that the outlook for the season is bright. He said that at least in the west, the crop in Manitoba, which province had the largest acreage under wheat production, Mr. McPherson said the prospects were particularly good, with a largely increased area of wheat acreage, and every prospect of abundant yields.

So far as passenger business was concerned, Mr. McPherson said that the roads in the west had never done better than during the present year. He said that the passenger business, particularly toward the far west, Mr. McPherson said it was too early to make any predictions, but the prospects pointed to at least as good a season as last year, with the number of visitors to the Rocky Mountain region, and up to the average.

Mr. McPherson will return to Winnipeg in a few days.

The Medicine to Cure

"Make Prussia hate war," says the German press. Give the Prussians and all other Germans so much of war that they will not talk war for the British army and then for the Americans spring from the same cause, a feeling that only a militarized nation, in the grip of a military caste, with an heroic aptitude and taste for war, can successfully make war on the modern scale.

Comfort For the Horse

Make the Horse Worth More as a Source of Farm Power

A piece of burlap or a gunny sack ripped open and laid over the harness of a horse, will keep him comfortable and keep his legs cool.

The only way to keep the horse's legs cool is to keep them covered with a blanket with either tail or nose and harnessed and hitched, so give it a piece of burlap or a gunny sack, and keep it on. This is a very simple and effective method of keeping the horse's legs cool. The blanket can be replaced a time or two during the summer and as the weather cools, it can be removed. Such a blanket on the body and the horse's legs will keep him cool with an inexpensive hand sprayer, to the horse's body and legs will make the horse worth more as a source of farm power.

You can make a good fly blanket out of a quart of pine tar, a pint of kerosene and a half gallon of kerosene mixed together.

LIFT YOUR CORNS OFF WITH FINGERS

How to loosen a tender corn or callus so it lifts out

Let folks stop at your feet hereafter. It's smaller. If you like, for corns will never again be a tender callus, or you according to this Cincinnati Enquirer.

He says that a few drops of a drug called frezzone, applied directly to the tender callus, will soon relieve sores, and soon the corns will fall out, and all, lift right out.

This drug dries at once and simply shrivels the corn, so that it falls out without irritating the surrounding tissue.

A small bottle of frezzone contains half a dozen, and will cost you but will positively remove any hard or soft corn of callus from one's feet.

If your druggist hasn't stocked the drug, you tell him to get a small bottle of frezzone from your wholesale drug house.

The Secret of Advertising

A Warning to the Advertiser Who Neglects the Day Season in Summer

Advertising! Bradstreet's statistics show that the day season is among non-advertisers is significant. Intelligent advertising has become an essential in the modern industry, but what shall the advertiser do in the case of the day season when he finds it difficult to get good results?

It should be remembered that the foundation purpose of judicious advertising is to make the advertiser's name in the public's mind. A leap in the campaign may be fatal.

So, we find Mr. George H. Clark, vice-president of the American Rolling Mills Company, declaring the company's purpose to continue its advertising campaign for two and a half years it had been in the market for the first time.

"We are building," said he, "a permanent business, and some day we would have to spend millions of dollars buying back the business and good-will of our clients if they are forsaken in this emergency. Unless advertising is kept up without a break the advertiser loses the results of the initial effort."

Here when advertising is at its lowest is the very time when a message to the public will get the most attention. It is good "psychology" to push the advertisement of a winter product in summer and of a summer product in winter—From Leslie's.

A True Canadian

Canada Has Every Reason to Be Proud of Dr. Ireland

A notable place in the Canadian heroes of the war is filled by Dr. Ireland. During the last months of the conflict and when Belgium was overrun by the Hun he ministered fearlessly to the wounded. He could have retreated, but he did not. He did not do so. He preferred to stay by the wounded, and he was taken prisoner by the Germans. He was removed to Berlin and there he was kept in a prison. While there he was not idle, but he was not permitted to see his wife during his illness and death. Despite all Dr. Ireland retained his nobleness of disposition. Canada has every reason to feel proud of such a hero. He is certain to receive a warm welcome on his return and to retain the place of respect in the hearts of the "fight-clients" of all denominations and all races—Buckley's Recorder and Times.

The Man With Asthma

Long for death to end his suffering. He was about 50 years of age and was tormented with intervals of rest which were followed by severe attacks of asthma.

The Naval Situation

Enemy Has Been Thrown Back on a Policy of Evasion

Drawing to its conclusion his last campaign, the enemy has been thrown back on a policy of evasion.

Believing the peace was broken in the summer of 1914, the majority of the German navy has been impressed by the double peril of invasion and starvation, through the loss of the navy.

How do we stand in this respect? The German navy has been impressed by the double peril of invasion and starvation, through the loss of the navy.

REFLECTIONS

"The reputation of the 19th century will one day be quoted to prove its barbarism."—Emerson.

The records of the 20th century will one day be quoted to prove its insanity.

Evidence of the insanity of the 20th century:—
The report of the United States Federal Trade Commission states that five companies—Armour, Swift, Morris, Wilson and Cudahy control the meat packing industry and are also reaching for a like domination in other products. For the years 1915-17 four of these companies reaped in profits $148,000,000.

It was stated in a recent paper that in one of these subsidiary companies, Mr. J. Armour's share of the profits was something over $96,000. It was a huge company and financially explains, in part, why we pay $10.00 for $2.50 alone.

The report states that the four millers increased their profits during war time from a pre-war price of 12 1/2 cents on each barrel of flour, and 12 cents on the capital investment to a war profit for the year ending June 30th, 1917, of 52 cents a barrel, and nearly 38 per cent. on their investment.

It is interesting to see from recent reports that the United States Government have been able to redress this injustice to some extent by securing 1,000,000 barrels of flour at a $1 per barrel.

The report states that the United States Steel Corporation increased its profits of 4.7 in 1912 to 24.9 in 1917.

The conditions which the report states to be true of the United States may be said to be true of Canada also. We are in the hands of monopolies. How can the situation best be met? The first thing to see clearly is that the principle of monopoly is wrong. It is wrong because no man has a right to the control of the necessities of another man's life.

"Nay, take my life and all; pardon not that; You take my house when you do take the prop."

That doth sustain my house; you take my life.

—Shylock in the Merchant of Venice.

The second thing to see is that the principle of monopoly is the same whether held by a corporation such as the Standard Oil Co. or by smaller business houses. There are instances of business houses in towns and villages, deliberately raising and so controlling the use of buildings in that town or village that no similar line of business can get a foothold there. The principle employed is the same as that adopted by Armour or Swift, and what may be said of the larger companies may also be said of the smaller concerns. It is evident that if the conditions are to be changed then some new principle of business must be substituted for monopoly, or that for which monopoly stands—the control of trade in order that wealth may be acquired.

It should not be forgotten, however, that business firms may arrive at what is virtual monopoly by means that are not unfair, but which speak for business capacity. The day of small businesses has almost passed away. The larger firms, by greater combination of capital, by better business methods, by better and more machinery for the elimination of waste and through organization, can produce articles at much less cost than the smaller firms. In any commercial contest the smaller firms go to the wall, and what remains is a virtual monopoly for the larger firms, most not attained by unfair means.

It is, however, too dangerous a position to be in; to be at the mercy of the monopolies. It is true that they might use their power beneficently, though it is doubtful whether we have ever had any illustration of this power beneficently used in the past. In any case we should feel as Brutus felt when he contemplated the possibility of Caesar attaining the throne. "It must be by his death; and for my part I know no personal cause to spurn at him. But for the general. He would be crowned: How that might change his nature, there's the question. It is the bright day that brings forth the adder. And that craves wary walking. Crown him. That! And then I grant we put a sting in him."

That at his will he may do danger with. The abuse of greatness is when it disjoins Remorse from power; and to speak truth of Caesar, I have not known when his affections swayed More than his reason. But 'tis a common proof, That foolishness is young ambitions ladder. Whereto the climber upward turns his face; But when he once attains the utmost round, He then into the ladder turns his back. Looks to the clouds ascending the base degrees By which he did ascend. So Caesar may. Then lest he may prevent. And since the quarrel We'll bear no color for the thing he is, Fashion it thus, that what he is augmented Would run to these and these extremities.

And therefore think him as a serpent's egg Which hatched, would as his kind grow mischievous. And kill him in the shell."

But these monopolies are not benevolent institutions. The history of the Standard Oil Company, and it is only indicative of other histories, is that of a corporation strangled all competition until it had reached the stage of being able to dictate to the whole continent of North America, the price at which oils should be sold and by these means gaining the power of accumulating vast fortunes.

Fancy the ridiculousness of a Rockefeller, or a Swift, or an Armour saying: "My country 'tis of thee, sweet land of liberty."

What would "liberty" mean to them, save the power to hold man in kind in common or threaten? And what can it mean to us, save the sting of a far-off hope like the heaven some people sing after if there is principle of monopoly must go what must be the ideal of business houses.

An adequate return on the capital expended might be considered fair by some. The difficulty would be defining an "adequate return." There are those who think that if all the chances are taken in the way of loss the only adequate remuneration is all that can come in the way of profit. The only adequate solution to the problem seems to be common or public ownership of all things essential to the life of the community. Some way or other we must obtain all the splendidly organized methods of the large monopolies, which labor, thought, and expense used in bringing these large organizations to a pitch of perfection must not be allowed to vanish into thin air. To lose these would be to lose all the world markets which they have created. Yet the vast wealth which these trained methods have produced must be returned by the few.

There are many arguments against "Common Ownership" the most common of which is probably that Common Ownership does not pay. Why cannot the community work a system as economically as the individual?

The answer would be in the enormous waste which characterizes public systems. There seems to be a remarkable lessening of "Common Ownership" in regard to any work done for the community. The man who for fear of losing his position would not lose his life because he realizes that his time must be worth money to the employer this same man does not hesitate to waste the time of the community. There seems to be a good deal of truth in this doctrine.

—Mrs. Murphy—And what does your husband do these days, Mrs. Casey?

—Mrs. Casey—Shure, Moike doesn't do anything. He's got a government job.

The coming out of the British Civil Service for men of military age reveals in the discovery of many posts for which there was no work. There would be no such posts in a private firm.

The same want of conscience runs through many departments of life. Many men who ordinarily would scorn the least individualism in compulsion in robbing the government or railway.

The subject of "Public Ownership" is by no means free from difficulty. Indeed it seems to present more difficulties than private ownership. The results of private ownership, however, have made the situation intolerable. Some way out of this difficulty must be found.

It has been suggested that the taking by the government of all above a certain margin of profit would solve the difficulty. In the case of a size company in America whose profits were controlled by the war board, immediately to curtail salaries to a proportion to the work rendered by them being paid to officials. Whatever law is made to control these systems seems by the very making of the law to set in motion minds which are bent on circumventing it. We have a law prohibiting the sale of intoxicating liquors and immediately it is shipped in from another province. That other province has no public conscience that would help a sister province. In the regulation of a traffic or system, ideas about limitation of trade and such like things begin to filter through its mind.

How far can this system of public ownership be carried? It would seem as though it ought to apply to all those commodities which are essential to the life of the community. Whenever a trade or business becomes an integral part of the national life then it seems as though it should be controlled by the nation.

A Montreal dispatch says that an order has been issued by the railway commission "equalizing" the commodity freight rates from Pacific points to points in Western Canada to a basis equivalent to that charged on commodity freight rates from eastern Canada to Pacific points, which were recently increased 25 per cent.

The meaning of which seems to be that hereafter prairie customers will have to pay as high rates for commodities brought from the Coast as brought from eastern Canada.

The eastern wholesalers seem to have got the prairie market coupled up properly. Big business is staying strictly on the job.

The Salvation Army has in view the drainage of the Devil's pool now have to take to deep trenches and dug-outs, using general instead of machine guns for military warfare.

In undoubtedly the most gripping and thrilling photodrama in which she has ever appeared, the nation's sweetheart, Mary Pickford, will be seen at the Rex there Friday and Saturday in her newest Aircraft picture, "The Little American." A vital story by Cecil B. DeMille and Jeanie Macpherson and produced under the personal direction of Mr. De Mille, whose many creations have made him one of the foremost masters of photography technique, this film offers a particularly timely subject of patriotic theme.

Since her appearance at the head of her own company for the Artcraft Corporation, Miss Pickford has appeared in several strong dramatic photoplays. Her recent production, "A Romance of the Redwoods," which was first shown proved a sensation, made a lasting impression on the minds of her thousands of admirers. Here, in the "Little American," she is given a story which for thrilling situations and great appeal outdoes anything the famous little star has ever appeared in.

The story deals with the present great war and offers various surprises that when seen on the screen will disclose remarkable effects. As the little American girl marooned in a French chateau while the nation's hero is in the front lines, she is given an opportunity to display the wonderful dramatic ability with which she is gifted. Although the story deals with the war, it is not of the same type as the ordinary war drama, as it deals more with the intimate than with the general. In keeping with the talents of the star, an exceptionally capable supporting cast appears in this production, including such well-known players as Robert Bosworth, Jack Holt, Ames Neill, Raymond Hatton, Guy Oliver, Edythe Chapman, Lillian Leighton, Walter Long, DeWitt Jennings and little Ben Alexander.

PICTURE INDUSTRY ESSENTIAL

The motion picture in all its branches has been reorganized as an essential by the war industries board, Chairman Harsh announced today, that this action has been taken in line with Provost Marshall General Crowder's ruling under the work of war regulation, that the industry afford useful occupation.

Worried nearly insane over his impending trial on the charge of murder, Steve Arant, the well-known Taber farmer, who was to have been tried for the murder of Carl Gorskis next week, committed suicide on Saturday night on his farm near Taber by shooting himself.

Died.—On the Fair day at Clareholm, the Clareholm baseball club Much regret is felt by its many friends.

THE GREATEST WASTE OF HUMAN LIFE

Does God fix the death rate? Once men were taught so, and death was regarded as an act of Divine Providence, often unaccountable. We are now coming to look upon Infant Mortality as evidence of human weakness, ignorance and cupidity. We believe that Providence works through human agencies, and that in this field as in others, we reap what we sow—no more and no less.—Dr. L. Emmett Holt.

One of the great impelling duties of this generation is to provide adequate protection for the citizens of tomorrow, who are the babies of today.

We need awakening to the importance of the child as primary assets of the nation.

The waste of infant life affects not only the happiness of the home, but the well-being of the nation. Half the death of babies under one year are preventable, the chief cause being ignorance. Where campaigns of education have been carried on, the infant death rate has been reduced as much as 50 per cent.

And for every baby who dies, five endure unnecessary sickness, and are handicapped for life as a result.

Great Britain now realizes that the neglect of her babies during the years 1872 to 1899 cost her the lives of 1,600,000 male infants alone, who would have been of military age today had been spared—a priceless reservoir of manpower was lost.

In Canada, where population is so needed and desired, there are annually 35,000 deaths of children under 5 years of age, most of which are preventable causes. About one out of every eight Canadian babies born, dies during its first year.

There is no loss so irrevocable as the wastage of these human resources. There is no economy so fundamental, and so investment comparable to that devoted to the conservation and all-around development of child life.

We must save the lives, protect the health, and development the whole personality of the child, and thus ensure a healthy, intelligent and moral generation of young Canadians, equipped for the tremendous nation-building tasks that await them.

Will You Help? The program of the Social Service League will appeal to all those who are interested in the betterment of human life and conditions. Many thought that when prohibition of the liquor traffic became a fact, the work of the League was done. A glance at the program for the future will be sufficient to convince anyone that there is a greater work ahead for the League than it has ever accomplished in the past and that it deserves the support of everyone.

The following is the program as it relates to child welfare, which we deem interesting enough to publish.

To arouse public interest in the conservation and all-around development of child life.

To promote such efforts by means of Institutes, Exhibits, Addresses, Sermons, Newspaper and Magazine Articles, Moving Picture Films, Lantern Slides, Literature, and every other method that may be found suitable.

To disseminate scientific knowledge on all subjects pertaining to Pre-Natal, Infant Care and Child Development.

To educate public sentiment with regard to the community's duty to the child, in such matters as pure milk and water supply, Sanitation, Housing, Premature and Free Pre-Natal and Baby Clinic, Recreation, Moral Environment, etc.

To urge upon the Provincial and Federal Government, the State's Duty to the child, with special reference to the establishment of:

(a) Pre-Natal and Baby Clinic which shall be accessible to every community and rural districts within the province;

(b) Free medical examination of all children of pre-school age and also of school age;

(c) Child Hygiene Division of the Provincial Department of Health; and the extension of the public health program, to reach all parts of the province;

(d) Adequate and suitable maternity hospital accommodation for all sections of the province;

(e) Legal protection against the spread of Venereal Diseases.

If, whatever may be the necessary in the way of schools and hospitals for the care and education of children who are mentally defective;

(f) A Canadian Child Welfare Bureau.

To direct and stimulate local investigations into the causes of infant mortality.

To promote the instruction of girls particularly in the teen years.

To cooperate sympathetically with all organizations and agencies interested in the proper placement of the Conservation and Development of Child Life.

To prepare programs, and suggest subjects for discussion by Mothers' Clubs, other women's organizations, Girls' Clubs, Preachers, and Public Speakers.

Farmers are Stopping the Profit-Eating Leaks This Year

Comparatively few farmers fall or lose heavily because of misfortune such as fire, wind or drought. The majority of failures and losses are from combined little leaks, and it is the many little leaks that are being studied and stopped.

HERE ARE SOME OF THEM—Feeding Wastes, Disease from Unsanitary Buildings, Unprotected Machinery. There are others but here are enough to kill the profits on any farm.

THE REMEDY—Concrete Granary Foundations and Floors, Concrete Barn and Hog House Floors, a Machine Shed. None of them are expensive and each will quickly pay for itself. Call and let us give you prices.

We are pleased to learn that he also, has turned down the offer in the interests of our own community. There is no gaining the fact that the large department stores are hindering the development of the small towns to a very great extent. Clareholm could support twice as many business men as it has at present. Those who patronize them often overlook the fact that these stores cannot pay manager $100.00 a year and give their goods away. As a rule, if you save in the price, you lose in the quality of the goods.

The Thrift Car

Consider carefully these three reasons why it is wisdom to get a Model 90 Overland car.

You need this modern method that enables you to do more work in less time.

Its price is unusually low considering its quality, its room, beauty, comfort and efficiency.
